Colonial Style to Be Maintained in the Magnificent Structures.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., August B.-Work in the construction department of the great Jamostown Exposition is now advancing with rapid strides.

It has began on the Machinery and Transportation Building. The framing for it has been erected, and the brickingers have started on the veneering that will form the outside walls. This structure will be just across Raleigh Square from the Manufactures and Liberal Arts Building. These two buildings are the largest to be erected on the exposition grounds, and are attracting a great deal of attention from the visitors that are daily passing through the exposition site, in these buildings will be seen most of the exposition exhibits. Both of the structures are of the same dimensions, and their entrances are to front on Hampton Roads.

The plan calls for buildings of the colonial style, 535 feet in length and 275 feet in width, with an elevation of 48 feet. The graceful simplicity of the architecture is in perfect harmony with the spirit of the celebration and the surroundings, and cannot fall to impress

Beautiful Floral Fence.

Beautiful Floral Fence.

To a great extent, the material to be used in these buildings will be brick and steel. The intervals between the colonial windows will be brick. Pliasters will flank each window, relieving somewhat the classic strength of the profile of the structures.

The main entrance is to be in the form of a colonial window, in which the lower sash is replaced by the doorway proper. Two pillars on each side will support the lintel, and the entrance is to be surmounted by a medallion window.

The streets and avenues of the grounds are rapidly taking their permanent form, and the beautiful floral fence combining honeysuckle, trumpet vines and crimson rambler roses blend into one long garland of green beaves and yellow and white and red flowers, and will form one of the most gorgeous hedges that the eye could wish to see. This fence, two and a half miles in length, marking the limits of the exposition grounds on the land side, is a feature that is distinct from that of any other exposition.

He was taken to the St. Vincent's Hospital after the shooting. It is said that his wounds are not serious. Sawyer who is fifty years old, was arraigned in Police Court to-day, charged with feloniously shooting Ferebee, who is fifty-four, but examination was waived by Attorney Duncan, and the case was sent on to the Corporation Court. Sawyer has been bailed.

Having been arrested at Pinner's Point by County Officer Bubbard for trying to break in a dyoing and cleaning place, he was delivered to a fail trusty to be locked up, but Crawford, feeling that a long term was before him, sprang over a porch and running across the county jail yard reached the fence separating the city and county jails, which he quickly scaled, but there was greater trouble in store for him. As he landed over the fence two trained bloodhounds owned by Deputy Sheriff Hoofnagle, took the scent and chased Crawford up a flight of iron steps, holding him there in great danger.

The man, recognizing his plight, made a flying leap to a stable and landed safely, but in the meantime Deputy Sheriff Hoofnagle had been aroused, and when the man refused to halt the officer fired a shot that struck Crawford in the left breast, knocking him from the top of the stable to the ground Officer Hubbard also fired a shot, but it was not effective. AN UNKNOWN MAN KILLED ON BAIL

White Stranger Crushed to Death Beneath Cars in Petersburg Yards.

NAME AND ADDRESS UNKNOWN

Coroner's Jury Failed to Disclose Anything Tangible Concerning Victim,

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PETDREBURG, VA., August 9—A white stranger, well drossed and apparently about forty years old, was crushed to death under freight cars in the freight depot of the Norfolk and Western Railway this afternoon. The supposition is that he crawled under the cars to take a nap. No one knew he was there, and as dar as known, no one had seen him prior to the accident. From certain small tools found in his pockets it is believed the man was a carpenter, but his appearance and the good material of his clothes would indicate that he was not of the tramp class!

When the cars under which he had sought rest were inoved the wheels passed scross the lower portion of his body, crushing the hips and severing the legs. His death must have been instantaneous. By direction of Coroner Leigh, the body was removed to the undertakers' rooms of Badger and Moore, and prepared for insteat and burial.

There was nothing about the body by which the dead man could be identified, except probably a pawn ticket, given by "S. Stern, pawn-broker, Richmond, Va.," issued August 8th, to Mr. Smith for $25 for tools. This shows that the man was in Richmond yesterday. In his pockets were also found two pocket-books, one containing $2.10 in change and some trifling trinkets; also two small carpenter's punches.

The deceased was a fine looking man.

trifling trinkets; also two small carponter's punches.
The deceased was a fine looking man, with high forehead, dark hair and black houstache. His beard was of two or three days growth and black. He wore a dark suit of clothes and a black dorby hat, with the mark of a New York house. He weighted about 160 pounds. The coroner's jury to-night rendered a verdiot that the man met his death by being run over by a car. His identity has not been disclosed, although evidence was introduced to show that he had been seen in Petersburg several times, and also on the Cannon Ball train from Bichmond. His body will be kept for several days and every effort will be made to prove his identity.
